Notes

This document serves as a compilation of the four volumes that comprise the tetralogy and the epilogue:

- 2017: The Year of the Every-Day Magician, or A Second-Hand Account of the Rise and Fall of the Renegades of the American Muslim Registry (2017)
- Piecemeal: Proceedings of the International Congress on Exploratory Meta-Living (2018)
- A Practicum on Divination via Cleromancy (2019)
- Shaharazad & the Ten-Thousand and One Diluvian Knights (2020)
- How I Survived the Presidency of Douchebag J. Troglodyte: A Daily Account: Epilogue (2021)

These four books and one pamphlet include one page written every day beginning January 1, 2017 and concluding January 20, 2021. The epilogue added one page each day in 2021 until the term of the current president ended with the inauguration of Joe Biden on January 20, 2021. The entire tetralogy is available via free, anonymous access at the website of the Poison Pie Publishing House.

Every daily contribution to the tetralogy was written in its entirety to the accompaniment of a recording of a particular piece of music. The work is identified at the end of each passage. An index of musicians appears at the end of the book, as do several other related indices.

Lest there be any misunderstanding, this collective work is an unambiguous repudiation of the forty-fifth president of the United States of America, who invoked the lowest forms of divisive rhetoric to take office with a minority of the vote, aided by the intervention of a foreign power. While in office, this president, on a daily basis, stoked the worst impulses of Americans, attempting to set one against the other for his own advantage. The title of the tetralogy is “How I Survived the Presidency of Douchebag J. Troglodyte: A Daily Account”. To those who decry this title as an antagonistic provocation, which further inflames the unproductive hyper-partisanship that currently consumes the country, we do not disagree. At the same time, we are compelled to justify the title by the recognition that failing to explicitly call out the egregiously corrupt behavior of our elected leaders threatens to normalize it for future generations.

The Year of the Every-Day Magician

A Second-Hand Account of the Rise and Fall

a post-existential fantasy

Each of the three-hundred sixty-five passages in this book was written in its entirety to the accompaniment of a recording of a particular piece of music. The work is identified at the end of each passage.

*The triggering of neural pathways by auditory stimuli alters in real time the dynamic activity, if not transient configuration, of the relevant portions of the brain. "One could say that the animals' temporal acuity exists "in" these long neural pathways in the physical structure of the perceptual apparatus." That any process, including that of writing, should be affected by the temporal fluctuations in the network induced by music is probable, almost to the point of inevitability. Much that is written herein would not have been generated in any other way.

Consequently, this book is dedicated to the many musicians whose music spoke to the author during its creation, and to the largely unknown people who facilitated the means by which the messages contained within this body of music could be widely transmitted.

An index of musicians appears at the end of the book, as do several other related indices.

*“I feel that there is an essence of creativity that is a human birthright that doesn’t go away, and that we are all basically born with... I feel that when people are listening to music, they can do it because of the sense of empathy that allows them to respond to the creativity of other people by feeling their own creativity. In other words, those neurons start firing and those experiences, those bodily feelings, start to resonate with the creativity that’s coming from outside, because they’ve got it within them.”

*To those awakened and directionless wandering toward yonder abyss
I say “not that way”*

—Keiji Haino, Pathétique, P.S.F. Records, Tokyo, 1994, translated by Alan Cummings

Each of the three-hundred sixty-five passages in this book was written in its entirety to the accompaniment of a recording of a particular piece of music. The work is identified at the end of each passage. As an oblique explanation for this process, the following two quotes are offered.

*“Good Evening. I hope you don’t mind if I say a few words. If you can’t hear them or you can hear them but you don’t understand them, it’s alright. They don’t really mean anything. Their purpose is to occupy the left-hand side of the brain while I’m playing. Some people smoke. Some drink. I talk to myself.”

“It was also made clear in this exchange that music can be viewed as a consequence of active listening; it is, at some level, through informed listening that music is constructed. Placing the skillful listener in such an active role explodes the category of experiences that we call listening to music, because it allows the listener the improvisatory freedom to frame any moment or any experience as a musical one. The improviser is always listening; the listener is always improvising.”†

An index of musicians appears at the end of the book, as do several other related indices.

*Derek Bailey (January 29, 1930-December 25, 2005) from “Aida”, side C: Introductions, HJRLP205, Honest Jon’s Records, London, 2018 (originally recorded 1980).

About the Author

David J. Keffer was born in Kansas City, Missouri in the autumn of 1970. He pursued a technical education earning a B.S. in Chemical Engineering from the University of Florida and a Ph.D. in Chemical Engineering from the University of Minnesota. After a year as a post-doctoral scholar at the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C., he began his career as an engineering professor at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, where he remains today. He has published about 100 technical papers in archival journals. He was awarded a Fulbright Grant to learn and to teach about sustainability in Seoul, Korea.

Outside of engineering, David Keffer studied world literature and creative writing. He has published analytical articles on the works of Primo Levi and Kobo Abé. He created various reading aids to several classical Chinese novels. Over the past few decades, David Keffer has been active writing novels, poetry and stories. Several novels and illustrated stories are available from the Poison Pie Publishing House at <http://www.poisonpie.com>.

Beginning in 2012, David Keffer began teaching a course on the subject of non-idiomatic improvisational music, of which he is a dedicated listener and a topic which has aided him in an on-going investigation of a literature of non-idiomatic improvisation.

David Keffer lives in Knoxville, Tennessee with his wife, Lynn, and two children. As a family, they enjoy hiking through the local mountains and are always on the look-out for poison pie and other ambivalent mushrooms that dot the landscape.
